ENAMELED WARE---GRADING RULES

Adopted by

THE ENAMELED SANITARY WARE MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

Enameled Sanitary Ware is thoroughly coated with enamel of good color, as evenly and smoothly as the limitations of the art permit. Careful inspection of each article is employed in the different processes of manufacture. Unimportant variations, which cannot be entirely prevented, are not valid causes for rejection or for complaint, and no claims will be entertained for them. These variations include pin holes, minute scratches or lines, unevenness and small specks of foreign matter.

A visit to any of the works to see ware in process of manufacture is one of the best possible ways to overcome tendency towards unreasonable criticism of general quality.

Absolute Perfection Is Not Guaranteed or Commercially Possible

THE TREATMENT OF ENAMELED WARE

While the casting part can withstand considerable shock without breaking, the enamel coating is of porcelain composition, and if the article is subjected to severe strains or shocks, this coating will shatter or crack in the same manner as will china or glass.
